By reference from the Director's Office, I talked to Congressman Boyle of Illinois. He is confronted with a difficult personal situation. He has 8 children. [redacted] his wife [redacted] is aggravated by a series of telephone calls which they get in Chicago at night. The caller rings the phone and when the phone is answered the caller does not answer.

b6

Boyle wondered what could be done since his wife had just called him and stated that the Telephone Company stated that nothing could be done. I told the Congressman that this, of course, was a personal matter not within our jurisdiction, but it seemed that if he had to have a listed telephone he could very well get a switch on it so that it could be turned off at night and he could then have a private unlisted telephone with the number being given to only those whom he wanted to have it. He thought this was an excellent solution and was most appreciative.

My dear Congressman:

Many thanks for your letter of March 28, enclosing a copy of the March, 1958, issue of "The Paper Book" and for your very kind congratulations on my receipt of the President's Award.

It was most thoughtful of you to forward this magazine, and I am deeply appreciative of your interest in this regard.

Sincerely yours,

J. Edgar Hoover

Book Reviews

WOE UNTO YOU, LAWYERS by Fred Rodell (Pageant Press, Inc.). This is a reprint of the same story published several years ago. The author has the virtue of telling what he thinks is wrong and the "vice" of being extremely rude and opinionated. We read the book with interest, at first, and then laid it down because of its exceedingly poor taste which bordered on an exposure of poor breeding. We suppose that disciples of academic freedom will use that doctrine as a reason for his presence on the law faculty at Yale.

On the other hand, it is possible that this literary device was used to attempt ranking among the ten best non-fiction sellers. Certainly, the author's style was meant to attract the headlines, particularly of periodicals which seek the bizarre. After all, books are written to sell.

THE STORY OF MY LIFE by Clarence Darrow (Grosset & Dunlap, Inc. $1.45). We read this story with a bit of personal background about the author. He called himself a atheist, certainly nothing less than an agnostic. We remember when the Chicago Bar Association honored him at a luncheon and he received a recognition witnessed by few during their lifetime. He had decried the emotional, sentimental things. He "proved" that only the material existed. BUT, his eyes welled with tears when this lonely man received the accolade of his fellows of the bench and bar. His autobiography is interesting and can be read with profit but it should be remembered that he was lonely and really wanted friends.

JOHN J. FALLON (Hosmer) passed away suddenly after a heart attack, on October 26. Brother Fallon was associated with a brokerage firm in Detroit and lectured at the University of Detroit Law School. He was investment advisor to the Supreme Senate. He is survived by his wife, six daughters and one son.

MARCH, 1958

Two Delta Thets Receive President's Award

Hoover and Jones Receive Highest Civilian Honor

ON JANUARY 16, President Eisenhower designated five outstanding government employees as the first recipients of the President's Award for Distinguished Federal Civilian Service, the highest honor the United States Government bestows upon career civilian employees. Two of them were Delta Thets: J. Edgar Hoover (Wilson), director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, and Roger W. Jones (Finch), Assistant Director for Legislative Reference, Bureau of the Budget.

The gold medal awards were presented at a ceremony in the White House on January 27. The award was established under the authority of the Government Employees' Incentive Awards Act, approved September 1, 1954.

The recipients "for exceptionally meritorious civilian service" were selected by the President on the basis of recommendation of the Awards Board of which Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell is chairman. Other board members are Dr. Alan T. Waterhouse, director, National Science Foundation; Louis J. Hector, member, Civil Aeronautics Board; William P. Rogers (Finch), the Attorney-General; and Percival Brundage, Director of the Budget.

Brother Hoover's citation mentioned that his "brilliant leadership has contributed immeasurably to the preservation and strength of the nation, its constitution and laws." He entered federal service in 1917 with the Department of Justice, became director of FBI in 1924 and served so continuously since. His career under five presidents and eleven attorneys general, is justly famous for the inspired leadership he has given the Bureau, one of the most respected organizations in the history of government.

Brother Jones' citation stated that his "exceptional objectivity and constructiveness made outstanding contributions to the development of federal legislation." He entered federal service in 1933 and has served with the Bureau of the Budget since 1939. He has played a larger role in the development of legislation than any other career official during the last six years. He has served under three administrations and been an outstanding example of devoted public service. His father, Henry Roger Jones (Finch, '06), a practicing attorney in New Hartford, Conn., and the recipient of a 50 year citation from the Connecticut Bar Association, attended the ceremony.

On 3-17-59, Mr. from the office of Congressman Charles A. Boyle, Code 180, Extension 5315, asked that we search our Identification Division files in an effort to establish the date and place of birth of one presently residing in Greece. He stated that is believed to have been born in the vicinity of Des Moines, Iowa, around and that this information is necessary in connection with a marital matter.

Crash Kills Rep. Charles Boyle

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (UPI)—Rep. Charles A. Boyle (D., Ill.), 52, was killed early today when his car smashed into an elevated train structure.

Police said Rep. Boyle, a third-term congressman from Chicago's North Side, apparently fell asleep at the wheel or was cut off by another car. He was alone at the time of the accident.

Rep. Boyle went to Congress in 1954 when he upset the incumbent, Rep. Edgar A. Jonas (R., Ill.) to become the first Democrat ever elected to Congress from the 12th District.

A well-known family man, Rep. Boyle had eight children, including an adopted daughter. He was named Chicagoland Father of the Year and Mr. Illinois in 1952. The family lives at 3912 N. Wakefield-st, Arlington, Va.
